Welcome, motivational speaker & industry overview

Chair: Dr Chris Gouws

08:00	Welcome & Opening	Dr Matt Young, President: OSSA
08:15	No more limits: From extrinsic to intrinsic mindset In every workspace employees experience challenges; like pressure to meet deadlines, limited resources, uncomfortable working conditions, etc. They also have personal challenges like financial difficulties, health issues, relationship struggles, etc. Many times, employees have an extrinsic mindset whereby they expect management, government, co-workers, the company, friends and family to understand, support and even come up with solutions. Unfortunately, this is not always the case and they end up disappointed, frustrated, confused, bitter, depressed, suicidal, etc. The aim of the talk is to help employees understand that if their conditions are not changing for the better, they can change their mindset for the better about their conditions. This can be achieved when they embrace an intrinsic mindset. A mindset which empowers individuals to see opposition as opportunity and to find solutions from within, amidst the external difficulties.	Motivational speaker: Dr Nthabeleng Rammile, University of the Free State

Chair: Dr Cobus du Plessis

13:30	Workshop: Taking a look at marketing and communication in ophthalmology This workshop explores how ophthalmic assistants contribute to how the ophthalmologist and the ophthalmology practice connect, relate and build relationships with patients. It focuses specifically on what the ophthalmic assistant can do to ensure that the patient remains the focus point. The workshop is built on four elements: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• the personal brand the assistant projects,• the impact of the assistant on the team in terms of communication and marketing,• marketing ideas applicable to the ophthalmic context,• and the value of differentiating between different stakeholders for better effectiveness in terms of the encoding of communication messages. With regard to content, ophthalmic assistants are guided to understand and implement basic communication and stakeholder management principles in a professional environment. Ophthalmic assistants will also be empowered to apply useful communication principles in a health care setting such as an ophthalmology practice. The presentation style is interactive with group work that allows for feedback and peer-to-peer interaction.	Mr GP van Rheede van Oudtshoorn

Welcome, motivational speaker & industry overview

Chair: Dr Chris Gouws

08:00	Welcome & Opening	Dr Matt Young, President: OSSA
08:15	No more limits: From extrinsic to intrinsic mindset In every workspace employees experience challenges; like pressure to meet deadlines, limited resources, uncomfortable working conditions, etc. They also have personal challenges like financial difficulties, health issues, relationship struggles, etc. Many times, employees have an extrinsic mindset whereby they expect management, government, co-workers, the company, friends and family to understand, support and even come up with solutions. Unfortunately, this is not always the case and they end up disappointed, frustrated, confused, bitter, depressed, suicidal, etc. The aim of the talk is to help employees understand that if their conditions are not changing for the better, they can change their mindset for the better about their conditions. This can be achieved when they embrace an intrinsic mindset. A mindset which empowers individuals to see opposition as opportunity and to find solutions from within, amidst the external difficulties.
